University Profile

The University of Saint Francis was founded in 1890 and has a rich heritage of offering quality education. Rooted in the Catholic and Franciscan traditions of Faith and Reason, the University of Saint Francis engages a diverse community in learning, leadership and service.

The campus has 74 acres of rolling lawns and trees with 19 buildings and four residence halls that surround beautiful Mirror Lake.

Personal attention to students is what makes a USF education so meaningful and enriching to its approximately 2,000 students.

Sociology Faculty

The Sociology faculty are dedicated to outstanding teaching and cooperative learning. Small class size optimizes interactions between students and professors. Students truly come to know their professors and work closely with them on a wide range of projects. Our faculty are engaged in important research that informs their teaching with the newest developments in their field. Furthermore, we strongly encourage majors to broaden their education beyond the classroom and participate in several possible internship opportunities.

Sociology Major

A successful career in this field begins with a firm grounding in the Liberal Arts through the university-wide General Education curriculum. The major's core courses stress student learning in diverse areas including sociological theory, research methods and the study of class, race, religion, the environment, gender, crime and justice. This broad array of courses allows students to shape their major while being broadly prepared for a wide range of professional fields after graduation.

The Sociology major is tightly interwoven into the fabric of the university community. All majors will benefit from the university's commitment to broadening students' awareness of issues that affect the local, national and global community. As a Franciscan institution of higher learning, the university also encourages students to apply their major in ways that can effect positive change in the wider community in areas like social justice, diversity and conflict resolution. A graduate of the Sociology program is perfectly positioned to accomplish this and much more.
